Mayor's vote kills unified government

Baker

By Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

Mayor Edwinna Baker cited a lack of city and county unity and funding concerns as the reasons for her tie-breaking vote to kill the first reading of the city's unification ordinance.

The city council split 3-3 at its Jan. 9 meeting on approving its ordinance, which would authorize the mayor to form a 20-member body to study the issue of unification.

Both the city council and fiscal court approved a measure back in August to authorize their respective attorneys to draft ordinances regarding the possibility of government unification. These ordinances, according to previous reports, would establish a joint commission to study the question of unified

Man charged with stomping on puppy
a courtroom no-show as trial date looms

By Ben Carlson
General Manager

The trial of the Lawrenceburg man charged with stomping an 8-month-old puppy to death and setting it on fire is scheduled to begin next Wednesday.

The question now is whether the defendant, Paul "Doobie" Dearing, or the prosecution's star witness will show up.

Dearing has missed consecutive court appearances, including last Thursday's pretrial conference with District Court Judge Donna Dutton, who questioned Dearing's attorney about his whereabouts before issuing a bench warrant for his arrest. Another bench warrant for Dearing exists from another case, court records show.

Judge allows gruesome photos of dead puppy

A motion to keep photographs of the puppy supposedly stomped and set on fire by Paul "Doobie" Dearing out of his trial was rejected by District Court Judge Donna Dutton.

Dearing's attorney argued that the photos would "prejudice" his client when his trial begins Jan. 18.

"There is no dispute that the animal is deceased," wrote attorney Justin Genco, "and the nature of the photos create substantial risk that the defendant will be prejudiced."

The photos, which were obtained by The Anderson News but determined too gruesome to print, showed the puppy's charred remains after it was dug up. Anderson County animal control office Jason Chesser retrieved the dogs remains, writing in a report that "it's head fell off" when he tried to pick it up.

week that they are looking for Dearing and a witness in the case.

Local soldiers prepare for yet another deployment to Middle East

Jackie Black has sent her husband off to war once before. "We had four days' notice, and then he left," Jackie said of her husband First Sgt. John Black's sudden deployment to Iraq with the National Guard in 2004.

Last Tuesday afternoon Jackie and her daughter Taylor, 14, were able to send John off for his second deployment, this time to Afghanistan, during a departure ceremony for the Agribusiness Development Team #4.

Jackie said she refers to the deployment process as a "journey."

"You think you're prepared for it, but when you actually get here, it's a very emotional time," Jackie said.

Phony pot, bath salts vote set for Tuesday

Judge-executive says opponents will speak out

By Ben Carlson

Those who think synthetic marijuana and bath salts should remain legal in Anderson County will have a chance to say so next Tuesday night.

That's when the Anderson County Fiscal Court is expected to approve a ban on the sale and possession of those substances, and future variations of them, into law following the second of two public hearings.

A workshop is scheduled for 6 p.m., followed by the court's regular meeting at 7. Both are open to the public.

Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway said he has had plenty of phone

News websites across the country are loaded with articles relating to deaths attributed to synthetic marijuana and bath salts due to the potency of both substances. In a phone interview Monday morning, Dr. Gina Wilkins, medical director for the emergency room at Frankfort Regional Medical Center, said they present growing, dangerous problem. "We have had multiple cases of this every week, especially in the Frankfort and Anderson areas," Wilkins said.

"People don't realize how powerful these substances can be. They think if they buy it at a convenience store, it can't be potentially fatal, but it is." Wilkins said those admitted after using the substances are given "supportive care" and IV fluids and are typically admitted into intensive care until the drugs were off, which can take up to 24 hours. She said the long-term effects are being studied and likely include depression, anxiety and addiction.

Most people, Jackie said, would describe her as strong. But it doesn't make saying goodbye any easier.

"My armor's cracking, shattering about now," she said with a smile.

Sitting in the pews of Forks of the Elkhorn Baptist Church in Midway, soldiers and their families listened together as the team's commander, Col. Tom Barrier, spoke about the upcoming mission to the Kandahar province in southern Afghanistan.

The men and women of the fourth deployment of this Kentucky unit will focus on rebuilding the Afghan economy by developing skills in agribusiness while living in tents about 17 kilometers from the nearest metropolitan city.

The unit, which includes soldiers from the National Guard, Army, Air Guard and three civilians participating in the Civilian Expeditionary Workforce program, departed Jan. 5 for Fort Atterburg in Indianapolis for about three weeks of language and other special training before leaving for Afghanistan.

Sgt. Bobby Sizemore, who will be deploying for the first time, spoke of Col. Barrier as a good friend and role model, and one of the reasons he wanted to join the ADT 4.

"It's a very humanitarian mission," Sizemore said. "I think it's going to be a special mission."

It was Maj. Gen. Edward Tonini's selection of Barrier as leader that piqued John Black's interest in joining this particular Kentucky unit.

"Very level-headed, common sense thinking," John said of Barrier. "I know he'll make a good decision in the tough times."

Just as Col. Barrier brought both Black and Sizemore into the same unit, it also brought their two families together. Both the Blacks and the Sizemores had lived in Anderson County for years, but only met three weeks before.

"And, in a strange way, brings the families together," Jackie said of the training and deployment process.

"And even after that, you remain close," Sizemore added.

Ashley Elliott, wife of Staff Sgt. Colby Elliott and a teacher at the Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg, said she has known Jackie Black since their daughters attended the academy together.

This is the third deployment for Colby, and for Ashley and their daughter Brette, 13.

Ashley said she thought this deployment would be easier.

"And it's not. If anything, it's worse than it has been the first two times," Ashley said.

Even though during her husband's first deployment to Iraq in 2002, Ashley was pregnant with her now 8-year-old son Gabe. Colby was able to see his son being born, and then came home from Iraq to a 6-month old.

"Married for 16 years and that's all we've known," Ashley said. "You think we'd be used to it by now."

But the support Elliott's received from friends and family, especially on the day of her husband's departure last Thursday, means the world to her, she said.

"I get so much support, it's unbelievable," she said.

"Really, it surprises me. It's overwhelming that they don't assume that you're an old hand, that it's no big deal to you."

Ashley also receives support from fellow military families through the unit's ADT 4 Family Readiness group, an organization that lends support and relays information to military families with ADT 4 soldiers serving overseas.

Jackie Black is a co-leader of the Family Readiness group.

"The support is there, the information is there," Jackie said. "It's just amazing to see how it's advanced, from his first deployment to now."

Both the Blacks and the Elliott families said they'll try to use every technology possible to keep in contact with their soldiers overseas from Skype to phone calls.

What will they miss most?

"Everything," Taylor said. "Him not being home, going to do stuff with us"

Jackie said she wanted the soldiers to travel safe, fulfill their mission and come home quickly.

In the meantime, she said she'll be taking care of the home, so that her soldier has a home to come home to.

January's Specials are for WHITENING and a Special Offer for NEW PATIENTS

Paying public has the right to know

Denied gerrymandering hopefuls now must challenge King head on Column as I see 'em ...

The health board has created a committee to figure out how to financially salvage itself from itself, and it's with no small amount of frustration that I'm unable to share with you how that process is going.
When it met last week, the committee promptly went into a closed session, emerged and adjourned without so much as a peep.
Public agencies have the right to discuss their business in private only when it involves property negotiations, or hiring, firing and disciplining employees. That's pretty much it.
What isn't allowed is the general discussion of salary ranges for positions, even if only one person currently holds that position.
When he explained why he wanted to go into that closed session, health board chairman Harold Todd said there was a chance that individual names could surface at some point. Even if that didn't happen, he said that people would likely know whose salary was being discussed solely because of their job title.

Ben Carlson
General manager

And while I certainly understand that logic and Todd's desire to prevent an employee from seeing his or her salary discussed — even if not by name — in the newspaper, that doesn't mean the discussion should be done out of sight of taxpayers whose responsibility it is to fund that position.
That being said, I'm left only to deduce that with roughly 80 percent of the health department's costs associated with payroll, there is almost certainly going to be some drastic changes involving staffing levels or at least the number of hours they work.
That is a shame because instead of talking about the necessity of a new building what's now being discussed is people's livelihoods.
It's also a shame that those who supported the ill-fated decision to construct that building didn't take those livelihoods — and the public's future ability to support them — into account when that decision was made.
Those enamored of that fancy new building would now almost certainly trade it in for the old one if only to save their own jobs.
Keep in mind, taxpayers, that we aren't the only ones paying an obscene price for that building. Some of those who work there and feed their families from there are about to pay an even higher one.

Speaking of a higher price, I have learned that what was an annual $130,000 deficit for the health department has swelled to $184,000, making the decisions discussed above even more precarious.
It also reeks of the inevitable property tax increase that no amount of staff reductions will be able to stave off.
Those on the finance committee and their compatriots on the health board will have a mighty difficult sales job when that decision is made. They know exactly what needs to be done first to restore public faith that they are serious about getting the health department fixed both financially and internally.
The question now is how many of them have the guts to do it.

Speaking of precarious, I'll be amazed if anyone shows up at next Tuesday night's fiscal court meeting to speak out against the proposed ban on synthetic marijuana and bath salts.
As a person with an admitted Libertarian streak when it comes to government intrusion into our lives, I understand the argument against government dictating what we're allowed to ingest, but also believe there must be limits.
It will take mighty big you-know-whats for anyone to stand up in public and argue in favor of keeping legal substances that are killing teenagers, particularly when those substances have to be marketed as something they are not.
If these substances should be kept legal, why not just market them for their intended use, instead of hiding behind innocuous names such as foot power and potpourri?

Remember state Rep. Kim King's (R-Mercer County) threat on last week's front page to take to court any effort to split Anderson County's House seat in Frankfort?
Word I've heard is that missive chapped some local political wannabes (re: Democrats) who were hoping to get King marginalized here or perhaps bounced out of Anderson County altogether, leaving her seat wide open this fall.
That apparently isn't going to happen. House Bill 1 has already been introduced, and effectively leaves King's seat untouched.
Now that the effort to gerrymander Anderson County has apparently failed, perhaps those eyeballing King's seat should step up and try to beat her fair and square.
Deadline to file is Dec. 31, and King has already done so.

The GOP's 'Amazing Race'

I love reality shows.
Especially presidential elections.
For most of us who follow politics, it seems as though we're beginning an unnecessary fifth season of "The Amazing Race Political Survivor: Iowa and New Hampshire," not diving into the infancy of the 2012 presidential race.
I'm already exhausted by the debates, the practiced on-camera smiles and blind predictions for the Republican Party nominee.
But somehow, I can't look away, like one of those bug-eating episodes of "Fear Factor."
There's something intriguing and truly bizarre about the voting process in America.

Although compared to Russia's Vladimir Putin, who allegedly forced workers to attend a rally in his honor and advocated "nationwide psychotherapy" for unhappy street protesters, perhaps we're relatively normal.
For some countries, being able to vote freely is what's truly bizarre.
It's hard to think about the power of the vote when, up until 2008, voter turnout in recent years was disappointing at best.
Back in 2008, I watched election returns by refreshing my Internet browser, over and over again while attempting to work the front desk of my college's library.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Lack of travel policy latest example of city, county government blunders

To the editor:
Just when I thought nothing would surprise me when it comes to the ineptness of our city and county officials, especially after the blatant misuse of credit cards, I now read city government no written policy for travel.

I find this very hard to believe, but yet just like the county judge-executive acknowledging the purchase of several cases of soda pop in one month with a county credit card, the city admits there is no written travel policy. Really? When reporting the use of taxpayer dollars, the buddy system is how it's done? Wow!

I'm not questioning the characters of our local government officials, but I have doubts on their leadership capabilities.

City Clerk Robbie Hume is the regional Bluegrass representative for Kentucky Municipal Clerks Association. I wonder if the subject of protocol on travel expenditures is ever discussed in their meetings during the year, but by Hume's quotes, it doesn't look like it. Networking meetings and legislative update meetings at these KMCA conferences during the year provide little benefit to the citizens of Anderson County.

I open The Anderson News each Wednesday evening to read about our officials and how they have failed once again to understand how an office funded by taxpayer dollars should properly function and operate. Is anyone else getting tired of this?

A travel policy can be written on a half sheet of paper. But I find amusing every time it's brought to government officials attention that their not doing something the proper way, they always say, "Well, we'll see what the state's policy is and copy that."

OK, if you are aware that the state has a policy on travel, then why did it never dawn on local officials that they should have one, too?

By the way, it doesn't make me feel comfortable if the one who reviews and approves travel expenditures also does his own. Proper checks and balances need to be in place to ensure everything is done properly and in accordance to any policy or law.

It's that simple.
This lack of standardization makes me also wonder what other common written policies our officials don't have in place. Like the proper use of a county/city owned vehicles, cell phones, office phones and reimbursement procedures, computer usage and time sheets — does anyone really look at them?

To ensure policies, proper reporting practices are done and work-ethic standards are followed by all, make an employee handbook. Have it be a three-ring binder to make it simpler to add or amend items. Then have the heads of each division verbally go over every page with their staff. Then give every employee the handbook. This covers the bases.

An employee has been verbally told, and has it in writing.

Now it's an absolute waste of time if there are no serious repercussions when an employee fails to abide by the handbook. It's that simple.

Food pantry thankful for support

Remembering 1994's bitter winter blast

We've complained in recent years about the single-digit temperatures we've seen from time to time during the winter months here in central Kentucky. So far this season, the 10-15 degree range is about as cold as we've gotten, but even at that you can hear grumblings from folks about how spring can't show up fast enough.

Shawn Crowe
Guest columnist

I thought I'd do a quick little write-up about the January we experienced here 18 years ago, just to jog our memories and remind us that it could be worse — a lot worse.

During the middle of January 1994, a powerful weather system moved into the Ohio Valley. Kentuckians saw several inches of snow fall on average, with some areas seeing even more than that. It was a fairly serious snowstorm for us, and it created quite a few headaches, but after blanketing the region in snow the storm wasn't finished yet.

The day after the storm subsided, a severely cold arctic air mass moved in and air temperatures plummeted. Many cities saw readings dip into the 20 below zero range. Shelbyville bottomed out at 37 degrees below zero. This is still the coldest temperature ever recorded in the state of Kentucky. It is simply astonishing.

The brutal temperatures made an already bad situation even worse. Power lines started to crack and fail. Thousands of people lost electricity. Water lines began to succumb to the cold and there were many ruptures.

It was a disaster for utility companies, and they could not respond to the problem areas easily due to the snow.

One report indicated that nearly 2,000 Kentuckians slept in government shelters. The governor declared all interstate and parkway roads closed to traffic, except for emergencies. This also caused the storm to become a disaster in economic terms, since goods and services could not be delivered.

The news media reported on a manager of a local Walgreen's store who slept at the store so that he could be there to open his doors the morning after because he knew his customers would need their medications.

The UK basketball team had its flight cancelled and barely made it to Florida in time to play the Gators on television that night.

Most people found themselves stranded at home for at least two days with no way to get out, and no businesses open even if they could.

The brutal air temperatures combined with the snow was something folks in Alaska were accustomed to seeing, but Kentuckians were completely unprepared for such a severe blast from winter. Just walking outside would cause frostbite within minutes unless your skin was totally covered.

It was an event we'd never seen before, and haven't seen since. As a high school freshman at Anderson County High School, I enjoyed the days out of school though. It made for a nice little vacation since I didn't have any responsibility at the time.

Most people did not share my feelings on the situation. It was a paralyzing storm in the literal sense of the word.

To make matters even worse, just as Kentucky was beginning to recover, an ice storm pounded the state just a few weeks later and shut down many of those areas.

The next time you walk outside and think "it's cold!" just remember that it can always be a lot worse. January of 1994 proved that, and will live in infamy.

Folks who have been around Kentucky for a long time can attest to the fact that severe winter weather seems to follow a cycle every other decade.

The 1950s, '70s and '90s all featured some historic winter storms. With that in mind, it would seem that we are looking at the possibility of terrible winter weather becoming more common in the coming years.

Ex-social worker in Fla. as court date set

By Ben Carlson
General Manager

The former social worker facing nine felony counts of tampering with public records in cases involving the sexual abuse of children did not appear Tuesday morning in Anderson Circuit Court, but a date was set for her next appearance.

Margaret "Geri" Murphy, who lives in Florida, previously worked here in social services as a field worker charged with investigating child abuse.

She pleaded not guilty last year to each of the charges against her.

Her attorney, Bill Patrick, said Tuesday that he continues to examine documents in the case against her and requested a hearing date in front of Circuit Court Judge Charles Hickman for March 6, which was approved.

Along with alleged sexual abuse, other cases include allegations of child neglect, parents using drugs while an infant and toddler were in their vehicle, and another allegation of abuse that, according to a parent, resulted in children "smearing feces all over the bathroom and themselves," and "acting out sexually against a young child visiting the [parent's] home."

Another case involves the alleged sexual abuse of a 7-year-old by a babysitter's boyfriend.

In her report, Murphy wrote that she had interviewed the suspect, along with the Lawrenceburg Police Department.

She also wrote that the suspect passed a lie detector test and unsubstantiated the allegations of sexual abuse, according to court files.

When questioned by investigators, Lawrenceburg police officers said the suspect was never interviewed nor did he take a lie detector test, according to court files.

Murphy later admitted that she falsified the case, according to court documents.

Murphy, who moved to Florida after being forced from her job with social services, returned to Kentucky last September to appear in Circuit Court, where she pleaded not guilty and smiled as she left the courtroom.

That appearance marked the only time Murphy has been in court.

The case is being prosecuted by the state attorney general's office. Each felony count carries a sentence ranging from one to five years, and a fine ranging from $1,000 to $10,000, according to court documents.

about every 10 minutes.

After work, I rushed back to my dorm room to watch the final results of the first presidential election I was ever eligible to vote in.

I'm already concerned, at the beginning of January, how I'm going to watch election returns this upcoming November without access to a variety of local or national TV news outlets.

Yeah, I know. I'm an election nerd.

But it's just not the same, to be unable to watch national history in real time.

Because, whether we like it or not, those presidential elections are history.

And we all can be participants in that history, if we choose to be.

Anderson County will also be seeing some election seats up free to be claimed in 2012, including city council and school board seats.

I haven't lived in Lawrenceburg long enough to know how elections are viewed and debated here.

But hopefully, that election won't resemble a twisted episode of "The Bachelor."

That's one reality show I could never stomach.

Summer's warmth will be here before we know it

Boy, have we been spoiled. This winter's temperatures could have been a gardener's dream, if we'd known. We could still have lettuce, spinach, turnips and kale growing, if we hadn't put the gardens to bed. By this date last year, we had had 2.5 inches of snow.

What makes it snow? Moisture and temperature are the two culprits. Moisture in the air gathers into droplets and when the temperature cools enough, ice crystals are formed. As more are formed they get heavier. When it gets heavy enough, it falls as snow. So, where's our snow?

Well, when we've had the moisture, we didn't have the right temperatures for snow. When we had the cold temperatures, we didn't have the moisture. I'm just grateful that it hasn't been freezing rain, or worse.

During the winter of 2009 we had the worst ice storm in Kentucky's history. We had 2-inch layers of ice on everything, and it was no picnic.

Ice storms form when a layer of warm air is between two layers of cold air. Frozen precipitation melts while falling into the warm air layer, and then proceeds to refreeze in the cold layer above the ground. This creates freezing rain or a glaze of ice. It's like a winter Oreo cookie.

We have a cold front moving down from Canada right now. If the Gulf of Mexico sends us some warm air, we may be in for some real winter weather. I don't want cookies. I'm a brownie girl.

So far, the Old Farmer's Almanac has been a little off. It did call for below average precipitation for the month of December and slightly warmer temperatures. But, we were supposed to have a little more snow than we did.

It's still cold to me and that means plenty of inside time. The mailbox has been stuffed with seed catalogues, giving me plenty of reading material. Each year there are lots of new seeds to choose from, but I just like to look at the vegetables shown. It reminds me of summer.

You remember summer. Those days when you didn't grow a load of laundry in a matter of hours. Those mornings when you didn't put on layers of clothes as you were getting out of bed. Those afternoons of shorts and sandals, not thermal underwear, thick socks and boots.

Here's a warming thought. Spring is just 70 days away from today. We only have 10 more Mondays to live through before the sun maneuvers into the equinox. This spring may be a little colder and wetter than we like, but it will still be spring.

In the meantime, we're raiding the pantry and turning out chili and casseroles to warm us up as the temperatures dip. Hot chocolate warms our hearts and bodies. The tomatoes, corn and beans are going into soups or on the side. We've had it easy so far, but a lot can happen in 70 days.

You can be a winter weather predictor, just watch the animals and skies. I work until 8 p.m. most days during the week, so during the winter I keep a close eye on the incoming fronts. Driving 18 miles out into the country, at night, during the winter, can get a little hairy and we know the weathermen don't always get it right.

I keep an eye on the birds. If you see them become very active, fluttering frantically to and fro for food, you better start watching the radar closely. Remember there is a 100-mile "fuzzy zone," built into the radar models.

Look for clouds that look like a cauliflower because that means moisture is growing. Watch for a halo around the moon and expect precipitation by morning. Let's have strong positive thoughts and keep at least the ice at bay.

Stock up on milk and bread now. The bread will keep in the freezer and the ultra pasteurized milk keeps for weeks. Remember, it's better to be prepared and not need it, than the other way around. Just keep dreaming of warm, sunny days and they'll be here before we know it. Happy growing.

A daughter of Scott and Rebecca Lawless, she plans to study dermatology at the University of Louisville.
Lawless competed in the countywide competition in March 2011.
The Anderson High student was Overall Scholastic Achievement Winner and captured first place in her division in the Creative and Performing Arts category on her way to earning the top honor.

The Distinguished Young Woman of Kentucky competition, formerly known as the Junior Miss competition, will be held Jan. 13-14.
All activities will take place at the Singletary Center for the Arts in Lexington.
The first preliminary session will be Friday, Jan. 13 at 8 p.m.

The second preliminary session will be Saturday, Jan. 14 at 1:30 p.m., with the finals taking place later that evening at 8 p.m.
To purchase tickets, call 859-257-4929 or stop by the Singletary Center. Two-day packages are $75 and single tickets are $30.
For those interested in sending cards of encouragement to Lawless (who will be staying with a host family in Lexington), please send any mail in care of Lawless to: 3430 Chestnut Hill Lane, Lexington, KY 40509.

Church honors World War II veteran for military service

By Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

Family and friends had been keeping a secret from World War II veteran Alvin "Huston" Perry for weeks: a day dedicated entirely to the 88-year-old for his years of military service.
"I was really surprised, was really shocked," Perry said of walking into his home congregation of Pigeon Fork Baptist Church, filled with family and friends, on Sunday morning.
Pigeon Fork Deacon Ralph Kerry came up with the idea to honor Perry, according to Steve Mitchell, a relative of Perry's by marriage.
Relatives came from as far away as Mississippi and Ft. Wayne, Ind., to commemorate Perry's service.

"We wanted to do it while he could enjoy the day, enjoy being honored," Mitchell said.
Perry, a member of Pigeon Fork for about 70 years, entered the Army on Oct. 13, 1943 and served as a military policeman and a rifleman in France during World War II. Shot in the shoulder two hours before being captured, the wounded Perry marched to a German prison camp and spent the next 10 months as a prisoner of war.
Perry later received a purple heart for injuries he sustained in France.
"But it's not worth getting wounded to get it," Perry said with a laugh.
Perry has also been awarded an EAMET ribbon, World War II victory medal, American Theatre Campaign medal, Good Conduct medal and two overseas service bars.

The Sunday morning service featured a flag presentation by a representative from Congressman Brett Guthrie's office and a PowerPoint presentation with pictures of Perry from his childhood and time in the military, followed by a reception with food and fellowship.
Perry said he really enjoyed receiving the flag, which had flown over Washington, D.C.
"I had a good time, I was glad to see everybody," Perry said. "I really enjoyed the whole day."

Frankfort Regional to build bigger, better ER

By Meaghan Downs
Staff Writer

Anderson County patients at Frankfort Regional Medical Center will experience some changes to the center's emergency department, courtesy of a three-phase $8.4 million expansion and renovation project.

Frankfort Regional Medical Center held a groundbreaking ceremony for the project Jan. 3, inviting doctors, nurses and other members of the staff to don a hard hat and take a sledgehammer to a wall of the old emergency facility.

Construction for the expansion is set to begin by next week.

The new emergency department, scheduled for completion by May 2013, covers 19,500 square feet and features an additional 10 private rooms and a new 64-slice CT scanner, a non-invasive imaging system that scans images of whole organs in seconds.

Chief Operation Officer Lee Higginbotham said the 15-month project will be completed in three phases in order to best transfer current services for patients, such as the triage and waiting areas.

"It's not your typical renovation," said Brad Wands, director of business development.

"We still need to see patients."

Dr. Gina Wilkins, director of the emergency department, said the volume of patients at the center has grown in the past couple of years, and that the expanded emergency area will provide more space to see more people, including Anderson County patients.

"We can see patients more quickly, more efficiently so that they don't have to wait as long."

And if there is a wait, all patients have to do is check a waiting room monitor, or their own cell phones.

According to a press release from the center, the expanded emergency department will also feature a waiting room monitor that will display patients' expected wait times. The waiting period is tracked using a statistical system that uploads data to a RSS feed, which updates both the monitor and the hospital's website at www.frankfortregional.com.

Patients can also track waiting times via text message by texting "ER" to 23000 to get a reply, after entering their zip code, with the most recent wait time.

Farmers wins 'Spirit of Giving' award

From staff reports

The downtown branch of Farmers Bank and Capital Trust won the 2011 Mayor's Food Drive "Spirit of Giving" award for collecting the most pounds of food for Open Hands pantry.

The bank, the 2010 winner of the "Spirit of Giving" award, collected 850 pounds at its downtown location and 250 pounds at its branch on US 127 for a total 1,100 pounds.

Commonwealth Credit Union came in second place with 790 pounds of food.

Other banks participating in the drive included MainSource, Century Bank, Town and Country and Wood Forest.

The canned goods were collected Dec. 19 and distributed through the Open Hands food pantry, organizers said.

Incumbent Carroll files for re-election

From staff reports

State Sen. Julian M. Carroll, D-Frankfort filed Monday for re-election, his office announced.

Carroll's office made the announcement and cited his history of public service and a record of working for public employee benefits, significant progress in roads, education, and protection for senior citizens.

Carroll, who represents Anderson, Franklin and Woodford counties and a portion of Fayette County, has been a member of the state Senate since 2005. However, his record of public service spans more than four decades, including a term as governor from 1976-80. When he sought the governor's office, Carroll won the race by the widest majority of any governor in state history, carrying all congressional districts.

Carroll has also served in the Kentucky House of Representatives from 1962-72, was Speaker of the House from 1968-1972, was lieutenant governor from 1972-75 — winning that race by the widest majority in history — and served as chairman of both the Governors and Lieutenant Governors National Conferences.

During the 2012 Legislative Session, Carroll said one of his top priorities will be to balance the state budget without making significant cuts while preserving education, health care and public service.

"I am grateful and honored by the confidence the citizens of the 7th District have placed in me," he said. "We've had a lot of success, but there's more to do and I look forward to the challenge."

Carroll currently serves on the following committees: Banking and Insurance; Economic Development, Tourism and Labor; Licensing Occupations and Administrative Regulations, and Enrollment. He also serves on the Capital Projects and Bond Oversight Committee and the Government Contract Review Committee.

"I have a long record of service with the state of Kentucky and I will continue that work during the 2012 session," he said. "I will be a voice for our state employees, our teachers and all the citizens of the Commonwealth."

Carroll, 80, who earned his law degree from the University of Kentucky in 1956, is a retired attorney. He and his wife, Charlann Harting, reside in Frankfort.

Students of the Week

Lexi Thompspon

Grade and school: Seventh grade, Anderson County Middle School
Favorite subject: Language Arts
Favorite musical group: The Band Perry
Last book I read: 'The Hunger Games' by Suzanne Collins
Last movie I saw: 'Alvin and the Chipmunks: Chipwrecked'
Person in history I'd most like to meet: Helen Keller
Future plans: I would like to be a veterinarian.
Principal's comments: Lexi Thompspon is a true shining star. She is a kind, sweet person who completes all assignments with excellence. She is willing to help in any way: by reading in class, volunteering to answer questions, or aiding peers who are struggling with assignments. Though young, she is a model of character and hard work.

Patrick Terry

Grade and school: 12th grade, Phoenix Academy
Favorite subject: Science
Favorite musical group: ICP
Favorite book: 'Crank'
Favorite movie: 'Taken'
Person in history I'd most like to meet: Leonardo Da Vinci
Future plans: Military career
Teacher's comments: Patrick is one of the hardest-working students at the Phoenix Academy. He is a leader in and out of the classroom and is always extremely focused on his academics. Patrick is very goal-oriented and knows exactly what he wants to do with his life.

Am I a miserable sinner? You bet

I am often asked by those who read my column if I actually "walk the walk" or practice what I write here in the paper. The answer is I try. Do I fail miserably at times? You bet I do. The truth is I often feel either like I am a failure at being a Christian or at best a lukewarm Christian. What the scriptures

Jess Thompson
Guest columnist

tell us about lukewarm Christians in Rev 3:16 is: "because you are lukewarm — neither hot nor cold — I am about to spit you out of my mouth." I think we know what the scriptures tell us about the lost. I do not intend to sin or continue to sin and am ashamed when I do. It is comforting knowing that, per 1 John, 2:2, Jesus "is the atoning sacrifice for our sins." I often reflect on the life of Paul, who wrote much of the New Testament. Paul killed Christians before he saw Christ then changed his ways and was forgiven. I am in no way comparing myself to Paul other than I am greatly comforted that God forgave him and forgives you and I through the sacrifice of the lamb, our savior, Jesus. Now, when discussing sin and forgiveness of sin, we must not leave out repentance. Repentance is confessing sin and turning away or committing to not continue to repeat the sinful act. Luke 13:3, "But unless you repent, you too will all perish." Jesus said in Matthew 4:17: "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is near." In Acts 2:38 Peter replied, "Repent and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins." I guess in summary, I am acknowledging I am a miserable sinner that takes great joy in knowing that through repentance God forgives even me.

Where two or three gather

In church you often hear the phrase: "Where two or three are gathered together..." and sometimes this phrase takes on new meaning. The normal path had already been traversed. I had announced my calling to the people who knew me best. Then there was the consternation of delivering my first message, a total disaster in my opinion. Thanks to God, loving church members helped me pick up the crumbling pieces of untried preacher's oratory skills. So I preached some more at the church I was a member of and even a few times at the church I had grown up in. Finally, on Christmas Eve of 1975, they kindly decided to license me.

Tim Johnson
Guest columnist

Let's fast forward a few months. A 19-year-old minister sometimes finds himself venturing outside the confines of his home church and such was the case for me in 1976. On my way to my first speaking engagement and first pastorate, hundreds of thoughts ran through my mind. My uncle had given me my first lead and had even graciously made the introductory call. I got the directions and I was on my way. It was explained to me that the church was small. On the one hand were the naive expectations of young adulthood and on the other hand I was so green behind the ears, cows could have pastured there for quite a few weeks. I imagined a church about four times the size of what it actually was. A full house, filled with people who were waiting with baited breath to hear my sermon. The church was located in the middle of a holler. When I arrived there, it was soon apparent the building was one room and thus the original installment of having the wind let out of my sails came into play. In fairness to myself: I would have preached on a stump, and later in my career did so. It was a beautiful church. White on the outside, with a large pot-bellied stove in the middle on the inside and even had chandeliers. Yes, we had three bodies that day, not counting the pastor: two little boys and a cat. In the phrase: "Where two or three are gathered together," Jesus continues: "there I am in the midst." When we gather together in his name, He is present; whether our guests are expected, or unexpected.

YOUR CHURCH closed its doors on December 25 for all sorts of reasons. I guess one of the favorite was to have family day where all could be at home to remember Christ in YOUR OWN WAY. What will be the next Sunday that you will close YOUR CHURCH? Maybe the first day of the year; or maybe it will be the Super Bowl, or Mother's Day or Father's Day. And let's not forget about Grandparents' Day and Graduation Day.

YOUR CHURCH claims to be the church of the Lord and on HIS DAY you shut the doors of where people are suppose to collectively worship. The writer of Hebrews condemned the early Christians because they were afraid due to persecution (Hebrews 10) and therefore they quit worshipping. All it took for YOUR CHURCH to shut its doors was a manmade celebration. You see the celebration of the birth of the Lord is a manmade holiday. It was never celebrated in the first century but was established somewhere in the fourth century with various dates considered. Where is the authority of Christ to celebrate HIS BIRTH and shut the doors of the churches?

The LORD'S CHURCH will always be open on the LORD'S DAY regardless of what else might be going on. One of the main reasons it will be open is because it is every Lord's Day, we are to remember his death and resurrection through partaking of the Lord's Supper (Acts. 20:7; I Corinthians 11:23-24; Matthew 26: 26-29). Come worship and visit with the Overland church of Christ in Lawrenceburg.

Why they'll make it; why they won't
 Season's midpoint a good time to look at Sweet 16

I would like to talk with the person that came up with the phrase, "It's a long season." Whatever. I took a look at my calendar and saw that 5 1/2 weeks ago today, I was sitting in the press box at L.T. Smith Stadium in Bowling Green to watch Anderson County play for the state high school football championship. If you look at the calendar again, you will see that in 5 1/2 weeks, the Bearcat and Lady Bearcat basketball teams will be hosting Franklin County in the regular season finales. The following week the real season will begin with the 30th District Tournament at Anderson County High School. So at the exact midpoint of the basketball season, it is time to take a look at the prospects for either team advancing out of the Eighth Region to the Sweet 16. The Anderson County Lady Bearcats were the pre-season pick to make it to Diddle Arena for the girls' Sweet 16. And even though they are not at the top of the region in the computer rankings now, the Lady Bearcats are very capable of making their second state trip in three years.

John Herndon
 Sports editor

Why the Lady Bearcats will win the Eighth Region

1. Anderson County is the most complete team in the Region. The Lady Bearcats are a classic team that has several different parts that can accentuate each other's strengths and, if playing well, mask deficiencies.
2. Bench strength. At the high school level, a girls' basketball team with a long bench is rare. It is not uncommon to see 10 Anderson players see significant action when the game is still on the line.
3. Home court advantage. For the first time ever, Anderson will be hosting the Eighth Region Tournament this year. The Lady Bearcats have not been invincible at home, even losing one to Lexington Catholic early this year. But it is an advantage. A huge advantage.

Why the Lady Bearcats won't win the Eighth Region

1. Inconsistency. It seems odd wondering about that when the team is 12-4 against a rugged schedule, but the Lady Bearcats have had a tendency to play to the level of the competition at times. That can be very dangerous in a single-elimination tournament. When Anderson is on, the Lady Bearcats are very tough. If they are not clicking, they are merely above average.
2. The loss of Destiny Stewart. Stewart, who injured a knee two weeks ago, was still waiting for the results of an MRI as I wrote this. But a full recovery this year would be unlikely. Stewart's intangibles are immeasurable. Anderson must have someone step into her roles to make it back.
- Meanwhile, the Bearcats have been one of Kentucky's pleasant surprises. They are better than expected, but have a way to go.

Why the Bearcats will win the Eighth Region

1. Anderson is the epitome of a team being the sum of the whole rather than five individual parts. Anderson is complementary and plays well together. The team is tight-knit.
2. Depth. Even some of Anderson's best-ever teams have not had the depth this team does. I am not saying this is the strongest bench Anderson has ever had, but it is well above average. Anderson coach Glen Drury has 10 or 11 kids very close in ability.

Why the Bearcats won't win the Eighth Region.

1. There is little room for error. Anderson has no superstar to take a game over. If more than one Anderson player is having a bad game, the Bearcats could be pressed to overcome against a good team.
2. Other teams. One of the cruel rules of elimination play is that a team can play to the best of its ability and still stay home. This year, as many as 12 teams in the region can beat each other.
- We will see how it all pans out over the last half of the season and in the tournaments.

No stopping Smith, Bearcats at Collins

Last-second three gives Anderson improbable win, district lead

By John Herndon
 Sports Editor

SHELBYVILLE - There's not much that can stop Jay Smith. Especially a cut over his eye. The Anderson County junior set off a wild celebration as he banked in a 3-point shot as time expired to give the Bearcats a 50-47 win at 30th District rival Collins Friday night. Smith's game-winner was as improbable as the outcome itself. Getting the ball in the backcourt, in front of the Collins bench at that, with 1.3 seconds left, Anderson had one final chance to pull the upset few would have envisioned when the basketball season started on Dec. 2. After a timeout, Anderson's Seth Carmichael fired a perfect pass to Smith, who had curled around a screen from Spencer Ruggles. Smith turned and fired. The ball rattled around the rim and hit the backboard before falling through. The Bearcats won their twelfth straight to open the season, but most importantly, took a commanding lead for the top seed in the district tournament, to be held in late February at Anderson. Anderson would taste defeat for the first time Saturday night when they lost to Somerset at Adair County. "I have to give the boys a lot of credit. We found a way to win," Anderson coach Glen Drury said of the Collins victory. It was a win that simply was not supposed to happen. Collins possessed a tall, athletic team that many have pegged as a strong threat to make the state tournament in the school's second year of existence. The Bearcats, who knew that Collins promised to be the best team they had played to that time, were not supposed to have and answer to the Titans' size and athleticism. But somehow, the Bearcats overcame despite making just 1-of-4 free throws in the final two minutes - two were the front end of the bonus - and turning the ball over with 5.4 seconds to play. Carmichael, who had rushed to Shelbyville from the Kentucky-Tennessee Border Bowl football festivities to play, fired what Drury called "a quarterback pass. He put it right in Jay's hands and Jay just shot straight away. We got the ball where we wanted it. You have to credit our kids for execution. "Seth was bound and determined to be here. He was going to make it. He cares so much for his teammates and he is a great teammate."

Mat Cats qualify for state duals

Dillow, Stockton, Spencer unbeaten at region meet

From staff reports

The Anderson County High School wrestling team continues to turn in an impressive season under first-year coach Graham Carlton. The Bearcats, now ranked as high as 13th in the state, followed a second-place finish in the Woodford County Invitational with a second-place finish in the Kentucky Wrestling Coaches' Association Region 2 Duals, held Friday and Saturday at LaRue County. Anderson advances to the state duals meet, to be held on Jan. 28 at Henry Clay High School in Lexington. Anderson routed five of six opponents, including perennial powers John Hardin and North Hardin. The Mat Cats' only loss was a 47-24 decision against top-ranked LaRue County. Individually, Austin Dillow (132 pounds) and T.W. Stockton (138) both won all six of their matches. Stockton recorded five pins while Dillow put two opponents' shoulders on the mat. Eric Spencer (145) only wrestled in five bouts, but won all five. Travis Kaelin (195),

First soccer coach dies

Pezzi laid foundation of Anderson programs

By John Herndon
 Sports Editor

Italo "Nick" Pezzi, the first boys' soccer coach at Anderson County High School, passed away last Thursday in Lexington. He was 70. A native of Italy, Pezzi was pegged to lead the Bearcat soccer program when it was formed in 1988. Already known in Lexington soccer circles, Pezzi quickly became a beloved figure among soccer enthusiasts in Anderson County. "I knew Nick through Lexington Adult Soccer League, Lexington Youth Soccer Association, referring, etc," Anderson County resident Scott Beckett recalled in a message from his Facebook account on Saturday. The Anderson Independent Youth Soccer Association had sponsored a youth soccer league for several years before the high school program got its start, but Anderson was well behind many of the surrounding counties at the high school level. "Coach Pezzi was the first coach for Anderson County soccer and he knew more about soccer than we could possibly comprehend," remembers Anderson girls' soccer coach Jason Earnest, who was a member of that first team. "The first year of the program was the fall of 1988. I was in the eighth grade. We mostly played against other JV teams and we would

Girls cruise past Collins, lock up district seed

By John Herndon
 Sports Editor

SHELBYVILLE - The rankings meant little. The standings? That is a different story. Anderson County, a team ranked among the state's Top 10 girls' basketball teams in the pre-season and still in the Top 20 in both major computer polls, looked anything but a team worthy of such a high ranking at Collins last Friday. It really didn't matter. The Lady Bearcats were far from their best, but their 51-40 win took care of the District 30 regular season standings. The Lady Bearcats overcame a ragged performance to improve to 12-4 and lock up the top seed in the 30th District Tournament, set for the week of Feb. 20-26 at Anderson County High School. "We ground out a win and it was a good team effort," Lady Bearcat coach Tony Kays said. Now 2-0 in district play, the worst-case scenario for the Lady Bearcats in regard to the district race would be a tie with either Collins or Shelby County. Since Anderson has beaten both, the Lady Bearcats would win the tie-breaker over either team. Anderson has now won 18 straight games against district competition and has earned the top seed in the district tournament four straight years. Anderson continued its dominance with a win over a Collins team that had exceeded pre-season expectations.

Courtney Milam (2) had a big weekend as the St. Catharine College women's basketball team ran its record to 15-3.

Milam shines for St. Catharine

From staff reports
Anderson County resident Courtney Milam had a big road trip to start the New Year as St. Catharine College registered big Mid-South Conference wins at Virginia-Wise and Pikeville last week, according to a news release from the college.

Milam scored 15 points as the Patriots held off Virginia-Wise last Thursday.

Saturday, the Patriots ran their record to 15-3 and 2-3 in the conference with an 86-83 win at Pikeville. St. Catharine led 41-31 at the half, but found itself down 57-49 with just over 12 minutes to go. Milam knotted the count at 75 with a 3-point shot at the 3:33 mark.

Pikeville regained the lead at 83-82, but St. Catharine's Janae Howard, who scored 26 points, hit four free throws in the final seconds to give the Patriots the win.

“Nick’s level of soccer was so far above what we had ever been exposed too, I am sure it was so frustrating for him in the beginning to get us to understand what he wanted and to play at a higher level.”

Beckett, who had been part of the push to add the sport locally, had approached Pezzi about taking over the program. “I believed first and foremost, he had the ability to teach the game at that level and could establish realistic goals for a young team just getting started,” Beckett said. “Nick did a great job building a foundation for our high school program.”

The team continued to improve while Pezzi was in charge.

“By my senior year, the fall of 1992, we went to the regional championship game,” Earnest remembered. “There were only eight regions in soccer then, so we had made the final 16.”

No Anderson team, boys’ or girls’, has advanced deeper in the post-season.

Pezzi did his best to make sure the program remained strong. “I really enjoyed playing for Coach Pezzi, he supported me and pushed me to get better,” Earnest said. “He encouraged us to play more soccer in the summer and winter indoor leagues. Club soccer didn’t start to take off in Kentucky until the mid-1990’s, so we had to play in adult YMCA leagues in Lexington. Nick would put those together and we were allowed to play with him on teams then, before KHSAA changed those rules at a later time.

“He also talked with me before my senior year about college soccer, something I had really never considered before. He encouraged me to take a look at some smaller schools and encouraged me to play and gave me the confidence that I could play at the college level. I went on to play college soccer as a goalkeeper at Georgetown College, starting most of my freshman year.”

And, Earnest says, Pezzi’s legacy still lives on even though he left Anderson nearly 20 years ago.

“As a coach of the current girls’ soccer team, I realize how much time it takes to be a coach,” he said. “I also realize how hard it is as a para-professional when you are not part of the school on a regular basis.

“It gives me a great appreciation for what Nick did for our soccer program. He had no ties to Anderson County prior to starting the soccer program and drove from Lexington on a daily basis. That took a lot of time, effort, and dedication from him to help get Anderson soccer on the map.

“I live in Lawrenceburg and graduated from (the high school) and I barely have the time to do what I want. Looking back, we were very lucky at Anderson County to have Nick Pezzi as our coach and to have him be the person that started Anderson soccer.”

Pezzi is survived by his wife, Rebecca, eight children, 21 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. A funeral mass was held Monday at St. Luke Catholic Church in Nicholasville with burial in Calvary Cemetery. Milward Funeral Directors of Lexington were in charge of arrangements.

Boys’ soccer coach reflects on Pezzi’s contribution

From staff reports

(Editor’s note: Anderson County High School boys’ soccer coach Brett Morris contacted Anderson News sports editor John Herndon about the death of Nick Pezzi, the program’s first coach and Morris’ high school coach. When asked for some comments, Morris replied with the following note, which has been edited.)

Anderson County High School’s first soccer coach, Nick Pezzi, passed away on Thursday, Jan. 5.

Nick Pezzi laid a foundation of fitness, responsibility and respect for the Bearcats in his care and was probably a better man than we deserved to have. The organizers of the first team knew what they were doing when the selected him to lead our program. They sought out someone with a true understanding of the game and what better place to start than a man of pure Italian heritage? Not a second generation Italian-American, born somewhere in the states; He was a full-blooded Italian, born in Bussi, Italy in 1941.

He was a soft-spoken, barrel-chested man, standing 5-feet tall at best, but appeared much larger than life to the group of scrawny teenagers he inherited.

I played for Nick Pezzi from the fall of 1989 until my senior year in 1994. Practice was three hours long back in those days, the first third of which was comprised of conditioning and fitness training. Though I didn’t realize it at the time, it was the smartest thing he could have done. He realized that our fitness was more important than our skill level for a young team because we could get fit a lot quicker than he could refine our skill set to a respectable level. We were almost never the most talented team on the field, but we fought like crazy for 80 minutes every match because we were in phenomenal shape.

And Nick wasn’t just the kind of guy who would set his watch and tell his group to start running. Nick ran with us and quite frequently embarrassed us by his pace and distance. Even Ricky Steele, our best athlete and cross country and track all-stater, had a tough time keeping up.

Maybe it was the intense training, maybe it was the stories from his homeland about how he hammered nails into his tennis shoes because he couldn’t afford cleats (he showed us the scars) and maybe it was his strict adherence to team rules and code of conduct, but whatever it was, he didn’t have to demand our respect and attention. It was hard-earned and freely given.

Coach Pezzi took a rag-tag group of rough-necks and turned us into soccer players. Unfortunately, there were no mercy rules in the late ‘80s in high school soccer because we took our share of beatings in those days, but by 1992 we reached the regional championship slipping past Nelson County and Scott County before finally bowing out to state power South Oldham in the final. It remains the deepest post-season run of any boys’ soccer team in school history.

It is my understanding that he was forced out when the KHSAA implemented a minimum college-credit requirement for head coaches, even though there was a grandfathering provision that would have allowed him to stay on if another candidate did not apply for the job.

Nick was a blue collar guy with no post-secondary education so when someone else applied for the head coaching job after the 1994 season, Nick was forced to step away. Bit by bit, the players he had coached began graduating and the program began to decline.

His work was forgotten by those who had taken him for granted and, sadly, his influence on the program became painfully evident only after he was gone. The players who were here from the beginning, however, remember what it was like trying to create a soccer program in a football-crazy town.

Coach Pezzi’s professionalism and respect for other people that made sure Anderson’s transition to the world’s version of football was an easy one in Lawrenceburg.

I lost touch with Coach Pezzi upon graduation, but I did see him around Lexington from time to time and know he remained active in the soccer community, playing in outdoor league around town well into his 60s. I have long believed you can’t know who you are unless you know where you came from and because of that, those early years of Bearcat soccer under Italo “Nick” Pezzi have forever shaped me as a player, coach and person.

I can only hope that his most important lessons still shine through in the teams I coach today.

Local teen helps Lexington Futbol Club win Disney tourney

From staff reports

Anderson County resident Danny Veech, a student at Lexington Catholic High School, is part of the Lexington Futbol Club Boys’ Premier 17-and-under team that recently won the Disney College Showcase in Orlando, Fla.

The Lexington team played in the Copa

Black Division, where it defeated teams from New Jersey and Florida to advance to the final.

LFC defeated rival Louisville United International in overtime in the championship game on December 30.

In the overtime shootout to determine the winner, Veech, the team’s goalkeeper, blocked three shots, including the final pressure-packed attempt, as Lexington took a 3-2 advantage in the overtime.

The team, which is made up of players from Louisville, central and northern Kentucky, had also won its division in a tournament at Raleigh, N.C. on Dec. 4.

Veech has been a member of the team for four years.

Somerset ends Bearcat winning streak

From staff reports
Somerset, a team that, like Anderson County, is enjoying success a year after struggling, ended the Bearcats' 12-game winning streak with a 60-50 decision in the McDonald's Classic at Adair County High School on Saturday.

Anderson led for much of the game and was in front 37-34 heading into the fourth quarter, but fighting deep foul trouble and fatigue, the Bearcats could not close the deal.

"We hit the wall," Bearcat coach Glen Drury said. "We just ran out of gas. It was a lot closer game than the final score. They hit a lot of free throws at the end."

Anderson had been down four with two minutes to play. "We didn't play bad," Drury said. "Somerset is a good team. They are 10-4 for a reason. They made some tough shots late."

Anderson was saddled with foul trouble from the outset. Leading scorer Lowell Gordon played just three minutes in the first half before going to the bench with two fouls. Austin Hall was also in quick foul trouble.

"At one time, we had three sophomores in there - (Ross) Cox, (Christian) Estes, and (Luke) Mann."

Anderson was without starter Seth Carmichael, who was participating in the Border Bowl football game. Carmichael had planned to drive from the game to Adair County but was unable to get away in time.

"It might have been a blessing in disguise to play without Seth," Drury said. "He does a little bit of everything for us, but he could get in foul trouble later in the season. We might have to play without him again."

Jay Smith led Anderson with 15 points.

"This was a good game for us," Drury said. "Both teams played 5-on-5. And give Somerset some credit. They wanted to shut Gordon down."

Gordon finished with seven points.

"After the game, I told the kids let's start a new streak," Drury said. "We have not lost at home and we have not lost in the region. Darrin Laswell (a senior) spoke up and said we have to be determined to get better to get where we want to be."

Anderson County's Lowell Gordon looks to set up the offense during Friday's win over Collins. Gordon is the state's leading 3-point shooter, averaging 4.1 per game, according to the KHSAA.

BOYS

That pretty much sums up how the entire Anderson team continued its success against a team it was not supposed to beat.

The Bearcats refused to give in, battling the taller Titans to a second half draw on the boards after seeing Collins pick off 12 more rebounds in the first 16 minutes.

After Collins' Ralphie Stone's three-point play gave the Titans their first lead - 40-39 with 5:12 left - since the game was seven minutes old, Anderson showed the resilience that had carried it through several scares early in the season.

Twenty seconds later, Lowell Gordon swished a 3-pointer from the left wing that gave the Bearcats the lead for good.

The Bearcats opened the lead to as many as four inside the final two minutes, but the poor free throwing in the final minute made things tougher than they should be.

Fortunately for the Bearcats, Collins, which fell to 9-6, was not able to fully capitalize. Dez Marshall failed to convert a 3-point play that would have tied things at 47 with 24.3 seconds to go.

Then, after knotting things, Brian Stone missed the second of two free throws at the 20.5 second mark, setting up the final sequence that saw two turnovers and three timeouts before Smith's game-winner.

Anderson had opened a 22-17 halftime lead and then extended it to 33-23 after Austin Hall finished a fast break midway through the third quarter. "Give Collins a lot of credit," Drury said. "They got down 10 and came back."

Anderson had riddled the Titans behind the 3-point shooting of Lowell Gordon, the state's leading bomber, according to statistics released by the KHSAA last Thursday.

Gordon finished with 20 points to lead all scorers and his trey to open the second quarter scoring, gave Anderson the advantage it would hold for all but 39 seconds the rest of the way.

"We did a great job of creating stops when we had to," Drury said. "They key to being a good basketball team is being able to come up with your stops."

Anderson had opened some breathing room without Smith, who suffered a cut when he took an elbow to his head late in the first quarter. He remained on the bench with ice on the injury through the second quarter and returned to action in the third quarter with wrap on his head and a new jersey to replace his blood-soaked shirt.

But as Collins found out, nothing was going to stop Jay Smith Friday night.

Alex Swartz (182) and Zack Perry (152) all went 5-1, while Chris Fitzpatrick (220) and Jacob Vincent (160) both went 4-1.

Bearcats ranked high statewide

Anderson was ranked 13th statewide in team duals, while placing 14th in the overall team rankings released by the Kentucky Wrestling Coaches' Association last week.

A testament to Anderson's depth could be seen in that no Anderson wrestler was ranked higher than fifth statewide, but the Bearcats had 10 different wrestlers ranked in the Top 25 of their respective classes.

Kaelin and Stockton both were ranked fifth, while Fitzpatrick was listed as No. 8.

Kentucky quarterback Seth Carmichael, of Anderson County, looks for a receiver during Saturday's Border Bowl game against the Tennessee All-Stars.

Carmichael has big game at National Guard Border Bowl

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Anderson County quarterback Seth Carmichael had a big game in the National Guard Border Bowl, played at the University of the Cumberland in Williamsburg on Saturday.

Carmichael completed 9-of-11 passes for 88 yards and a touchdown as he guided the Kentucky All-Stars during the first half of their game against Tennessee. Carmichael hit Eric Walker, of Covington Holy Cross, with a 37-yard scoring strike that tied the game with 3:50 to go in the first half. Carmichael was intercepted once in the second half. He had run for 33 yards before taking a sack of 23 yards reduced that total.

Tennessee eventually won, 24-20, scoring the game-winning touchdown with 50 seconds to play. An overflow crowd of over 5,000 fans attended the game.

Kentucky got to the Tennessee 30-yard line but a last-gasp pass was knocked away in the end zone as time expired.

"It was a good experience," Carmichael said. "It was definitely an honor to represent my family, my school and Anderson County as a whole."

Carmichael said he did not play much in the second half as Kentucky coach Sam Harp, of Danville, split time between his quarterbacks. Middlesboro's Chase Roark played most of the third and fourth quarters.

Both quarterbacks were selected to the All-Border Bowl team.

"Thanks to Coach (Mark) Peach for nominating me and thanks to Coach Sam Harp for the opportunity. We did the best we could for the limited practice time we had together."

Fitzpatrick opts out of game

Anderson's Chris Fitzpatrick had been selected to play but opted out of the game last week. Fitzpatrick elected to participate in the Region 2 Duals wrestling meet.

GIRLS

The Lady Bearcats hit 43 percent from the field and just over 50 percent from the free throw line, yet they led by 14 points going into the fourth quarter and never saw their second-half lead dip below six points.

Sophomore Eriel McKee led all scorers with 23 points, McKee also pulled down 10 rebounds.

"Eriel creates some matchup problems for most every team we play. She is long and quick. Around the basket she is real crafty," Kays said.

Anderson rolled to the win even though McKee's classmate, Makenzie Cann was battling through a bout with bronchitis and finished with just five points. Normally a deadly shooter, Cann did not make a field goal at Collins. She did, however, deliver six assists.

"Kenzie was not 100 percent. She toughed it out," Kays noted.

Anderson had gotten out of the gate slowly, with only five first quarter points. Kays was asked if the fact that his team arrived late, walking into the Collins gym about 15 minutes before the scheduled tipoff because of a bus scheduling error, had anything to do with the Lady Bearcats' sluggish start.

"It shouldn't have," he said. "The kids have been around long enough that they have been in every situation. We knew they couldn't play until we got there. They gave us plenty of time (to warm up) and I appreciate Collins waiting on us. Some things you can't control."

It was fitting that the Lady Bearcats' first lead - 10-8 - came when Jessica Rice buried a 3-pointer less than a minute into the second quarter.

"She knows her role," Kays said of Rice. "She plays good defense for her size. When it is kicked out to her, she can hit that shot. She is one of our better outside shooters."

The Lady Bearcats never trailed after Rice's bomb from the right wing.

Rice scored seven points off the bench while Alex Avritt also came off the bench to score five.

Anderson also had a big performance from freshman Corrin Robinson, who drew the assignment of slowing Collins' leading scorer, guard Learra

Lady Bearcats honor two

The Anderson County High School girls' basketball program honored sophomores Eriel McKee and Makenzie Cann for a pair of milestones prior to last Tuesday's game with Henry Clay. McKee was honored for becoming the newest member of the Lady Bearcat 1,000-point club during the Mercer County Titan Christmas Clash. Through last week's games, McKee, who started playing varsity basketball as a seventh-grader, had 1,114 points.

Cann became the school's all-time assists leader during the Mercer tournament as well, passing Jodi Neurohr, who finished her career in 1997 with 292 assists. Cann now has 304 assists in her career, which also started as a seventh-grader.

--From staff reports

Cardwell. "Corrin Robinson did a great job on Cardwell," Kays said. "She didn't have a field goal and she came in averaging 22 (points per game.) That was a big key."

By halftime, Anderson was in control with a 21-12 advantage. McKee riddled the Titans with slashes to the basket, scoring three more points than the Collins team in the first 16 minutes. McKee had held Collins' Aaliyah Wells to four points in the first half.

Anderson extended its advantage to 37-23 in the third quarter as Sydney Brown tallied eight of her nine points.

Yet, the Lady Bearcats could never fully shake the Titans as they missed easy shots, turned the ball over and had defensive lapses that allowed Collins to pull within six points twice in the last two minutes, but Cann sank four free throws and Robinson sank another to seal the win.

"It is tough on the road," Kays said. "They got a couple of threes and we had some breakdowns, but we got a good win."

Lady Bearcats rout Henry Clay

Anderson County jumped on Henry Clay early and never looked back in posting a 61-35 victory last Tuesday night at Anderson.

The Lady Bearcats led 21-10 after a quarter, then kept extending the lead for their sixth win in their last seven games. McKee led Anderson with 23 points, 10 steals, 8 rebounds and 4 assists.

Robinson added 10 points, eight coming in the first quarter.

Anderson shot better than 47 percent from the field and forced 32 turnovers.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE

In order to comply with the orders of the Anderson Circuit Court, the Master Commissioner will sell the property described in the following actions on Thursday, January 26, 2012, at 11:00 a.m. in the Anderson County Courthouse, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. The property shall be sold to raise the amounts herein-after set forth, together with interest and the costs of this action, and upon the following terms and conditions (unless otherwise indicated):

(1) At the time of the sale, the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. In the event the successful bidder elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish surety acceptable to the Master Commissioner. The bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest and the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum until paid in full.

(2) PLEASE NOTE: The real estate SHALL BE SOLD SUBJECT TO ALL city, state, county, and school real estate taxes, whether current or delinquent.

(3) Where the real estate has insurable improvements, the successful bidder shall, at his or her own expense, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on said improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, to the extent of the Court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, at a minimum, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner or the appropriate Plaintiff.

Failure of the successful bidder to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the successful bidder's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, the Plaintiff(s) to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Master Commissioner, if it so desires, and the premium thereon or the property portion thereof shall be charged to the successful bidder as the successful bidder's cost.

(4) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances thereon excepting easements and restrictions of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption which may exist in favor of the United States of America or the Defendant(s), and any matters disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property.

FLOODPLAIN AND WETLAND NOTICE OF EXPLANATION ACTIVITY IN A 100-YEAR FLOODPLAIN

To: All interested Groups and Individuals

This is to give notice that the City of Lawrenceburg, Kentucky, under CFR Part 58 has conducted an evaluation as required by Executive Order 11988 and/or 11990. In accordance with HUD regulations at 24 CFR 55.20 Subpart C Procedures for Making Determinations on Floodplain Management, to determine the potential affect that its project in the floodplain and wetland will have on the human environment for the Lawrenceburg Joy Street Storm Water Detention project under a HUD CDBG grant. The proposed project is located at 157 Joy Street in Lawrenceburg KY. The project scope includes the demolition of the structure located at 157 Joy Street and the construction of a detention basin to reduce and/or eliminate flooding in the immediate vicinity.

The City of Lawrenceburg, Kentucky, has considered the following alternatives and mitigation measures to be taken to minimize adverse impacts and to restore and preserve natural and beneficial values: a) One of the other residences in the area could be used, but the proposed house is uninhabitable. b) All the homes in the area could be acquired and demolished, but the cost of demolition and relocation would be far greater. c) An alternate location for the detention basin could be used, but there are no other locations that are suitable. d) The City will require best management practices on the part of the contractor to assure that any effects are temporary in nature. e) The City and its contractor(s) will comply with all State and Local Floodplain protection procedures.

The City of Lawrenceburg has re-evaluated the alternatives to building in the floodplain and has determined that it has no practical alternative. Environmental files that document compliance with Steps 3 through 6 of Executive Order 11988 and/or 11990 are available for public inspection, review and copying upon request at the times and location delineated in the last paragraph of this notice for receipt of comments. This activity will have no significant impact on the environment for the following reasons:

Work in the floodplain will be limited and best management practices will be utilized when working in the floodplain to minimize the effects of the construction activities.

Written comments must be received by the City of Lawrenceburg, Kentucky at the following address on or before January 27, 2012:

City of Lawrenceburg
100 North Main Street
